Individual Vendors at Rose District Farmers Market to Accept SNAP

Broken Arrow, Okla. (4/14/2015) – The Rose District Farmers Market opens its 2015 season on Saturday, April 18 at 8:00 a.m.

New this year, individual approved vendors will be able to accept payments from customers participating in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

Customers may look for signs posted at individual booths to determine which vendors are accepting SNAP. The information will also be posted in several locations at the Farmers Market. Additionally, questions can be directed to the new City Booth located in the center of the pavilion.

“All of the vendors have been working very hard preparing for opening day,” said Farmers Market Coordinator Judy Prieto. “Frontier Gardens will be giving away women’s garden gloves with a five dollar purchase, and A&D Shanks will be giving away free herbs. To avoid the crowds and find the best selection, arrive early. It’s going to be a banner year.”

Located in the newly renovated Rose District, at 418 S. Main Street, the market is in its eighth year. Shoppers benefit by buying produce harvested within a few hours of purchasing and supporting the local economy. Early crops such as spinach, kale, and leaf lettuces will be available; along with chicken, eggs, regular and gluten free Amish bread and local honey. Several types of vegetable starts will also be available, as well as a variety of unique agricultural crafts.

The Market will continue each Saturday from 8:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m. through September 26. Additional parking is available just one block west of the market on W. El Paso Street.

Broken Arrow Police Recruits Train On Ethics, Firearms

Posted: Apr 15, 2015 11:00 PM CDT

ALLISON HARRIS, NEWS ON 6 BIO EMAIL

BROKEN ARROW, Oklahoma - Police work can be life or death in a matter of moments; that's why officers go through months of training before ever hitting the streets.

Broken Arrow police said they spend hundreds of hours training so that in those high-stress moments the right reaction kicks in.

More than 150 shots were fired in Broken Arrow Wednesday; each bullet at the hands of the officers-in-training.

It's week seven of Broken Arrow's 25-week police academy, and Wednesday was the first time cadets touched a firearm.

Before they picked up the weapons, the main topic at the training camp was ethics.

They discussed real-life police shootings, like the one in South Carolina that killed Walter Scott.

When teaching lethal versus non-lethal force, Sergeant Thomas Cooper said officers must determine if a suspect is armed and a threat to themselves or the public.

4/14/2015 Related Story: Tulsa County Reserve Deputy Charged With Manslaughter Bonds Out Of Jail

"You know, unfortunately, out on the street you can't play through every scenario. Each one's different. But it's really that decision-making process that we emphasize, and it comes down to that individual officer," he said.

The decision-making process starts at training camp. The trainees spend 100 hours with firearms, but also train with Tasers and pepper spray.

Cooper said it's easy to play quarterback when watching video of a shooting, but it's the officer's training that forms a split-second reaction in the field.

"If it's a stressful situation you're going to go back to what you learned on the range," he said. "That mind frame of what's your decision going to be, make sure it's a sound decision and then, ultimately, act on it."

Officers said it's difficult recruiting with everything in the news, but they have high hopes for the nine new trainees, and hope to instill in them when it's right to fire and when it's not right to shoot.

When asked when officers should shoot and when they shouldn't, Cooper said it can vary and even depend on a suspect's mental state.

He said officers must weigh whether a suspect is armed and how big of a threat they are.

The Broken Arrow Police Department is still hiring and accepting applications through July. If you're interested you can learn more online.

Re: Notes to Council – Updated Rose District Farmer’s Market information

UPCOMING EVENTS

- April 18- Opening day of the Farmers Market. Five individual vendors have been approved to accept SNAP. Two more should be approved soon. The farmers have been working hard and are anticipating a great opening day.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

- Individual farmers must apply and be accepted by the USDA to accept SNAP. As new vendors apply to at sell at the market, if they are eligible for SNAP, they must apply. We will continue to have a mix of the older, more traditional farmers who do not want to participate for several years to come. However, we have plenty of participating vendors to serve the SNAP population.
